Introduction:

The Economic & Social Council of the United Nations Organisation in its inception itself established a Commission on the Status of Women entrusting it with the exclusive responsibility of making global policy dedicated to gender equality & advancement of women. Among its first accomplishments was ensuring gender neutral language while drafting the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, adopted by the General Assembly on 10th December 1948. In 1979, the General Assembly adopted the Convention on the Elimination of All forms of Discrimination against Women (CEDAW), which defines discrimination against women & sets up an agenda for national action to end such discrimination.

India has ratified various International Conventions & Human Rights Instruments committing to secure equal rights of women, including CEDAW in 1993.

The constitution of India not only grants equality to women, but also empowers the State to adopt measures of positive discrimination in favour of women. Accordingly, institutional mechanisms at all levels to promote the advancement of women are strengthened.

Our institution has also adopted a Gender Policy, the overall objective of which is to achieve gender equality where women along with men enjoy the same opportunities, rights & obligations in all spheres of life.

Gender equity means fairness of treatment to all genders according to their respective needs.

Gender Policy:

Our institution has adopted the gender equality policy to ensure that boys & girls are conferred equal benefits. It promotes human dignity & ensures equal opportunities & access to entitlements under the law. Gender equality results in the creation of all harmonious environment between boys & girls in the activities of the institution. This will set the stage for prevention of violence & harassment in the campus. It will also ensure equal participation in decision making processes of the institution.

Gender equality is a Sustainable Development Goal at both the International & National levels, as women have a crucial role to play in the development of the society. Hence, it's imperative for institutions to promote it & succeed in achieving full human potential & advancement.

standing student & Best Girl Student Awards every year. The NCC unit focuses on special achievements of girls & utilizes their services to fulfill their social responsibilities. The Girls Common Room enables them to relax comfortably during leisure hours. Ladies Wash rooms are spacious & well equipped with dustbins, mirrors, washbasins, sanitary napkin vending machine & incinerator. Lady teachers & the menial staff closely monitor girls' activities.

Guest lectures on women empowerment, educate the girls on their rights, responsibilities, safety & other concerns.

A gender audit is conducted to check & make self-assessment on gender equality measures adopted by through the institution and their success through circulation of questionnaire among the female staff members & girl students. It is then analysed to bring about necessary improvements. Every effort is then exercised by the institutions to enhance & up-keep gender equity.

Conclusion:

It was found that students were aware about the gender equity measures adopted by the institution but at different degrees. Students have expressed varied responses towards the infrastructure facilities provided & the conduct of women- centric programmes. The overall participation of boys & girls in academic, co-curricular & extra-curricular activities is satisfactory.

Introduction to Academic Audit

The main objective of an academic audit is to ascertain departments have put in place adequate and effective quality assurance mechanisms in terms of strategies, procedures, their applicability, that ensures quality inputs and consequently quality outputs; their agility in ensuring continuous improvements along with review of available resources, their optimal utilization, additional resource requirements for providing quality education.

An increasingly prevalent trend in the higher education scenario in India in recent years is the willingness and drive by institutions and universities to introduce systems and practices in their work environment and establish high standards and benchmarks to guide their performance in keeping with the institution's vision and mission. More and more of Institutions and universities in the country volunteer to subject their activities and performances to be critically reviewed and audited by national and international agencies. The contributions by national bodies such as the National Assessment and Accreditation Council (NAAC) in the educational sector, NABH in healthcare practices and NABL in laboratory practices have sensitized an increasing number of forward-looking establishments in the country to participate, learn and benefit from the expertise and readiness of these agencies to foster such participatory learning. Creation of internal quality assurance mechanisms that help to inculcate the gains made from such efforts in the day-to-day work ethics and organizational culture of the institution is an indispensable requirement in any quality assurance scheme.

The Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC) conducts regular feedback from various stakeholders, facilitating continuous improvement and addressing any concerns that may arise.

Overall, the institution demonstrates a strong dedication to creating a conducive and comprehensive learning environment, fostering the growth and success of its students.

Recommendations

1. Encourage Faculty to Attend Refresher/Orientation Programs: The institution should actively encourage its faculty members to attend more refresher courses and orientation programs regularly. These programs can provide updated knowledge and teaching methodologies, helping faculty members stay abreast of the latest developments in their respective fields. This, in turn, will enhance the quality of education they provide to the students.
2. Promote Research Projects: To foster a culture of research and innovation, faculties should be motivated to take up more research projects. The institution can support faculty members by providing access to necessary resources, and collaboration opportunities with industry and other research institutions. This will not only contribute to the advancement of knowledge but also expose faculty to cutting-edge research.
3. Encourage Pursuing Ph.D. Degrees: Pursuing Ph.D. degrees should be encouraged among the faculty members. This will not only add to their academic qualifications but also provide opportunities for them to specialize in specific areas of interest. Faculty with Ph.D. degrees can also serve as role models for students, inspiring them to pursue higher studies and research careers.
4. Promote Publications in Reputed Journals: Faculties should be encouraged to publish their research findings in recognized journals, especially those indexed in UGC CARE and Scopus. Publishing in reputable journals increases the visibility and credibility of the institution and its faculty members. Incentives such as research grants, awards, or recognition for impactful publications can further motivate faculty to publish their work.

5. Recognize and Reward Research Achievements: Recognizing and rewarding faculty members for pursuing research
